HE IS BLIND IN ONE EYE FROM A CAPCHUR GUN USED TO FIRE A DART FILLED WITH DRUGS TO CAPTURE AND TRANSPORT RHINO. His back is gnarled from falling off a rhino, and a vehicle, during capture operations. These physical wounds give a hint of his lifetime involvement with the white rhino that spans 50 years. He would ultimately be credited with as the leader of the team that repopulated southern Africa with this magnificent living dinosaur and be recognised globally for his work with Wilderness Trails.
